3. Adapted wheelchair workout by Jamie Justice: Jamie is 10 and has cerebral palsy. He designed this workout for the Joe Wicks competition to design a workout that could be chosen for everyone to do. As a wheelchair user Jamie wanted to create a workout for wheelchair users that could be adapted for able bodied, rather than the other way around. The family put it online and had some really positive feedback.

Cerebral Palsy Sport were delighted to be asked to showcase it too.

Many organisations are providing free content for keeping active at home for example:

Wheelpower

Wheelpower launched a set of Yoga videos to encourage wheelchair users to exercise from the comfort of their homes. The benefit of continuing exercise at this time is now of even greater importance.

The webpage is now live which includes further details and the direct links to the videos themselves:
